

October 27th. 2009

FORBRUKERRÅDET

Consumer council identifies the best website for cheap travels

The travel website Momondo (www.momondo.com) wins a price test on flight tickets conducted by the Consumer Council of Norway.

The Consumer Council of Norway concludes that there are great savings to be made on flights, depending on which travel search engine one uses. The travel site Momondo.com turned out to be the best in a price test on tickets conducted by the Consumer Council of Norway. The test included a comparison of 24 different travel websites and overall Momondo found the cheapest tickets. The Consumer Council of Norway's test showed that there are hundreds of Euros to be saved depending on which flight search engine the consumer uses. In their test report the council also gives useful consumer tips on how to save money on flights.

"We are extremely proud of the result of this test as it so comprehensive and it includes the all the major travel search engines on the market. It is very satisfying that it is a consumer council with a very high level of credibility who is behind the test", says Thorvald Stigsen, Momondo CEO.

You can find the test result and a list of the compared travel search engines here:

http://forbrukerportalen.no/Tester/2009/slik_finner_du_de_billigste_flybillettene?expandedtopic=1254816573.42

Momondos website: <http://www.momondo.com>

For further information please contact Thorvald Stigsen:
ths@skygate.dk / (+45) 33378085